

Peter and Mary are reading a story.

The Lost Purse

One day, Ann was crying in the street. She lost her purse. An old man walked by and helped her.

The old man took out a purse with one hundred dollars inside.

"It's not my purse," she cried.

Next, the old man took out a purse with fifty dollars inside.

"It's not the right one. What can I do?" Ann cried and cried.

Then the old man took out a dirty purse with twenty dollars inside. Ann was surprised and said, "That's it!" She thanked the old man.

"You're a good girl. Let me give you all the purses," said the old man.

The Lost Purse

One day, Ann was crying in the street. She lost her purse. An old man walked by and helped her.

The old man took out a purse with one hundred dollars inside.

"It's not my purse," she cried.

Next, the old man took out a purse with fifty dollars inside.

"It's not the right one. What can I do?" Ann cried and cried.

Then the old man took out a dirty purse with twenty dollars inside. Ann was surprised and said, "That's it!" She thanked the old man.

"You're a good girl. Let me give you all the purses," said the old man.

The Lost Purse

One day, Ann was crying in the street. She lost her purse. An old man walked by and helped her.

The old man took out a purse with one hundred dollars inside.

"It's not my purse," she cried.

Next, the old man took out a purse with fifty dollars inside.

"It's not the right one. What can I do?" Ann cried and cried.

Then the old man took out a dirty purse with twenty dollars inside. Ann was surprised and said, "That's it!" She thanked the old man.

"You're a good girl. Let me give you all the purses," said the old man.

The Lost Purse

One day, Ann was crying in the street. She lost her purse. An old man walked by and helped her.

The old man took out a purse with one hundred dollars inside.

"It's not my purse," she cried.

Next, the old man took out a purse with fifty dollars inside.

"It's not the right one. What can I do?" Ann cried and cried.

Then the old man took out a dirty purse with twenty dollars inside. Ann was surprised and said, "That's it!" She thanked the old man.

"You're a good girl. Let me give you all the purses," said the old man.

The Lost Purse

One day, Ann was crying in the street. She lost her purse. An old man walked by and helped her.

The old man took out a purse with one hundred dollars inside.

"It's not my purse," she cried.

Next, the old man took out a purse with fifty dollars inside.

"It's not the right one. What can I do?" Ann cried and cried.

Then the old man took out a dirty purse with twenty dollars inside. Ann was surprised and said, "That's it!" She thanked the old man.

"You're a good girl. Let me give you all the purses," said the old man.

The Lost Purse

One day, Ann was crying in the street. She lost her purse. An old man walked by and helped her.

The old man took out a purse with one hundred dollars inside.

"It's not my purse," she cried.

Next, the old man took out a purse with fifty dollars inside.

"It's not the right one. What can I do?" Ann cried and cried.

Then the old man took out a dirty purse with twenty dollars inside. Ann was surprised and said, "That's it!" She thanked the old man.

"You're a good girl. Let me give you all the purses," said the old man.

The Lost Purse

One day, Ann was crying in the street. She lost her purse. An old man walked by and helped her.

The old man took out a purse with one hundred dollars inside.

"It's not my purse," she cried.

Next, the old man took out a purse with fifty dollars inside.

"It's not the right one. What can I do?" Ann cried and cried.

Then the old man took out a dirty purse with twenty dollars inside. Ann was surprised and said, "That's it!" She thanked the old man.

"You're a good girl. Let me give you all the purses," said the old man.

The Lost Purse

One day, Ann was crying in the street. She lost her purse. An old man walked by and helped her.

The old man took out a purse with one hundred dollars inside.

"It's not my purse," she cried.

Next, the old man took out a purse with fifty dollars inside.

"It's not the right one. What can I do?" Ann cried and cried.

Then the old man took out a dirty purse with twenty dollars inside. Ann was surprised and said, "That's it!" She thanked the old man.

"You're a good girl. Let me give you all the purses," said the old man.

Choose the best answer by blackening the circles.

Choose the best answer by blackening the circles.

- Choose the best answer by blackening the circles.

2. Which one is Ann's purse?

3. Read line 10-12. Ann saw the dirty purse. How did she feel?

*4. Read line 13: You're a good girl.

Why did the old man say this?

- A. Ann did not cry.
- B. Ann only took her purse.
- C. Ann helped the old man find the purse.
- D. Ann took twenty dollars.

5. Read line 13. What did the old man give to Ann in the end?

*6. What do you think of Ann?

Ann is _____.

- A. hardworking
- B. clever
- C. honest
- D. careful