Dear Diary,

Mom and Dad told me I can have a pet but I have to take care of it myself. Mom said, 'Lots of children ask for pets when they get them, they lost interest in them. This isn't fair to the pet.'

I promised to take care of my pet, and today I went to the pet store. There were birds, fish, kittens, and puppies. I don't like to see animals in cages, so I didn't buy a bird.

I think fish are boring. All they do is swim around their tank. I can't play with them. I can only look at them.

Kittens are cute when they are young. But when they are older and become cats, they don't want to play. They just want to sleep and eat. I decided not to have a kitten.

This meant that there were only puppies left. There were several different kinds. Some were expensive because they were particular breeds. Others were cheap. They were mixtures of different breeds.

They all looked so cute. Then I saw the smallest puppy. She looked at me with her soft brown eyes. She seemed to say, "I'll be a great friend and always love you."

How could I not buy her? I'm going to call her Lassie and teach her to do tricks!

Love,
Jess
