Part 2

Narrator : Chloe is listening to a talk at school. Listen carefully and answer Questions 6-10. You have 30 seconds to study the questions. You may start now.
Listen carefully. The talk will begin now.

Principal Li: Good morning everyone. Today we have a guest speaker, Mr Alan Cheung, who is a dog trainer. He is here to talk about his career. Welcome, Mr Cheung.

Mr Cheung : Thank you Principal Li and students for the warm welcome. I'm very glad to have this chance to talk to you all about dog training and a career involving animals.
When I was a child, I was scared of dogs as my mother told me they would bite me. But actually, that isn't true for most dogs. When I was doing my form five exams, I wanted to get some money to buy books to help me study. My friend suggested that I could help look after people's pets when they were on holiday. I thought it was a good idea so I looked after the cats of my neighbour. I needed to feed the cats, play with them and change their litter tray. I enjoyed being with animals. I thought they were very calming and looking after the cats helped me relax when I wasn't studying. After graduation, my first job was working as a salesman for an Internet company. I didn't really enjoy it as I was not doing something I loved. I left that job and started volunteering at an animal charity. I was lucky as my parents had good jobs and gave me time to decide what I wanted to do. After six months working with the charity, I decided I wanted to become a dog trainer as I felt a special connection with dogs. To become a dog trainer, I did a course in dog training. I learnt how to teach and communicate with dogs. To become a dog trainer, you need to have experience of looking after dogs. You should know the habits of dogs well. For example, dogs are very active and need lots of running and playing.

What I love most about my job is that I can help many people and dogs. I help out with dog charities and I help to train dogs to visit patients. These dogs are called 'Doctor Dogs'. The patients are always happy to see the dogs. They enjoy patting and cuddling them. The dogs enjoy giving their love to people. I definitely recommend a career with animals.
