

My French Travel Memories

Five years ago I went to France. I was six years old at that time. My family and I went to the airport and got on the plane. The flight took thirteen hours. I fell asleep because it was worth sleeping rather than just sitting there for so many hours.

When we got to Paris, we went to a hotel to check in. When we were done checking in, we went to the Tuileries Garden which was very close to the hotel. My parents and I took a walk around the garden and I picked up a small rock as a souvenir. I still have it to this day. My father and I sat down on two green metal chairs and observed the fountain full of ducks.

After that, we went to the Palace of Versailles. We had to ride a train for one hour. We had to wait for another hour because there was an entire line. When we entered, we looked around and had afternoon tea in a restaurant inside. The Palace of Versailles was very beautiful and historical. There were many statues, paintings and murals. When I was at the entrance, I chased some pigeons because I thought it was fun.

At last we went to the Eiffel Tower. We couldn't afford the tickets because we didn't book in advance. We instead took pictures under the Eiffel Tower. Then we put a picnic mat on the grassy slope and ate a crepe. Then my parents and I bought a mini Eiffel Tower as a souvenir.

On this trip, I went to a lot of spots and had various kinds of food. I was very happy because my parents took me to many different places. I am very grateful!
